HISTORICAL MONUMENTS

New Orleans has more than 75 public sculptures honoring a noted person or an historic event. Placed in parks and parkways, the artwork acts as placemakers and wayfinders for residents and visitors. The essence of New Orleans is in its arts, its culture, its rich heritage and lush environment. The arts bring life to our community, and in New Orleans, the arts are all around us. We are reminded of who we are and what makes our city unique.

Public art reflects the local environment, cultural values, and the artistic vitality of the community in which it exists. Public art enhances the quality of life for citizens by encouraging a heightened sense of place, enhancing a community's prestige and enlivening the quality of the built environment.

The Arts Council of New Orleans is a private, non-profit organization designated as the City's official arts agency. Now in its 34th year, the Arts Council works in partnership with the City of New Orleans, community groups, local, state, and national governmental agencies, and other nonprofit arts organizations and businesses to meet the arts and cultural needs of the greater New Orleans region through diverse initiatives and services.
